The result of the recent vote in the Granite Cutters' International association for delegates to the convention for revision of the constitution, the said convention being now in session in Quincy, Mass., was as follows: there being seven cutters, one tool sharpener and one polisher, only one from each state or province: Granite cutters, Alex. W. Russell, Quincy, Mass., 1,785; Henry Alexander, Barre, 1,739; J. D. Will, Hartford, Conn., 1,180; Frank Pisani, Cleveland, O., 1,062; R. A. Brown, Concord, N. H., 910; Thomas F. Cottor, Chicago, 824; George Lauer, St. James, Minn., 822; tool sharpener, Charles Garvey, Providence, R. I., 1,638; polisher, Stephen Finney, Quincy, Mass., 1,596. Rome Magne of Montpelier received 922 votes and was second high man in Vermont, so he could not be chosen as a delegate although he received more votes than three of the delegates. Albert Tourgee of New York received the second highest number for the tool sharpener, having 1,103 votes. Carl O. Johanson of Barre received the second largest number among the polishers, getting 1,402 votes.

The Spaulding football team which played such a strong game against the Rutland high school team at Burlington Saturday forenoon, although defeated, 13 to 10, returned Saturday evening with Coach Ross, who was satisfied that only the breaks of the game caused his team to be defeated for the second time of the year. Mr. Ross, as did his charges, returned from Burlington with profound admiration for the Burlington high school students and accompanied the students to the university gymnasium Friday evening, where the college student body was holding a "smoker," as is customary before each athletic contest. Here they enjoyed the evening. The university officials allowed the school teams the use of the field without charge and furnished competent and very satisfactory officials for the contest. No pecuniary remuneration whatever was received between the contesting teams. There is some probability that the Spaulding team will wind up the season schedule with a game on Thanksgiving day on the home grounds. Negotiations are being made with St. Johnsbury academy to-day in hopes of a contest.

Just as on many other evenings, a group of young men, many of them high school students, congregated about the corner of the Aldrich building and the Tenney service room last evening, causing some obstruction to pedestrians. Officer George Mowatt, disapproving of the practice, advised the young men to discontinue jeering young ladies as they passed and also that of blocking the sidewalk. Three of the number made sarcastic retorts, whereupon Officer Mowatt took them to the station, where for several minutes he advised them with forceful and emphatic words. They were released without further proceedings but with a clear idea of what would result should this practice continue. One or two of the boys promised that they would be kept a secret from their parents, evincing the fact that their parents would hardly sanction their actions. A little co-operation on the part of parents might remedy this trouble.

The Fall of Omek

The year is ending. Kolchak is not at Moscow, but the soviet armies are at Omek, and Kolchak's government is in imminent peril of dissolution. On top of this come new misfortunes for Denekine, who has been driven out of Kiev by the Ukrainians and is threatened in the rear by a revolution north of the Caucasus which is said to have 70,000 men in the field to be closing in on Denekine's former capital, Ekaterinograd. Such news is not likely to encourage Poland and the Baltic states to continue a war which they desire to end.

When the evacuation of Omek began, it was said at Kolchak's headquarters that its importance was political rather than military. This is very true, and its loss is a political event more than a military defeat for Admiral Kolchak. If he could have won Siberia to his side he could have held Omek, and might even have taken Moscow. With the fullest possible opportunity to win the support of the Siberian people during the full year of his dictatorship, he failed most miserably, and some of the reasons are not far to seek.

For some of them, such as the intractable and rebellious temper of independent leaders like Semenov, he is not to blame. It would be unjust also to hold him responsible for all the sins of the reactionaries who gathered about him at Omek; personally he may be a good deal better than his associates. But the fact remains that sloth, inefficiency and graft flourished under his regime, and that he was unable or unwilling to get rid of undesirable elements. His assumption of a dictatorship alienated many, yet it might have been forgiven if he had set up a progressive, efficient and humane government. The contrary has been the case. Under his rule the "white" terror, as Kerenky points out, has rivaled the "red" terror. His administrative weakness is conceded by his friends and contrasts with the administrative ability which Lenin's government is showing. And finally, the reactionary temper of his government is shown by his waiting for the evacuation of Omek to begin before giving his reluctant consent to long overdue agrarian reforms. For all these reasons the revolutionists have been steadily winning the great battle of rival propaganda, the outcome of which mainly settled the fate of Omek. With Kolchak are men who rival the Bourbons in learning nothing, but who have forgotten what happened to the Bourbons.—Springfield Republican.

Something entirely new for dessert. See our adv. Barre Drug Co.
